

Does it need to spray water on photovoltaic panels

Overview

The short answer is: yes — but only if you do it the right way. Done wrong, spraying water can actually reduce efficiency or even damage your panels over time. Let's break it down in plain language. Can you spray solar panels with water without damaging them?

Learn when it's safe, what water to use, and common mistakes to avoid for better solar performance. This guide covers best practices, risks, and how proper mounting systems from Grace Solar contribute to effective cleaning and durability. I could fix up something that can periodically spray water on the panels to cool them off if there is. When cleaning solar panels, it is recommended to use calcium-free water, such as distilled or softened water. This idea came from a comment on one of my YouTube videos, which claimed you can increase solar power output by 10% just by sprinkling.
