Overview

What you typically see today for flexible solar panels sold into RV and marine use: Low-end marketplace brands: 6–12 months (or just platform protection). Serious mid-range brands: around 2–3 years of product coverage. ” It all sounds reassuring — right up until a panel starts peeling off your roof in year two and nobody wants to own the problem. Flexible panels are especially tricky because they live much harder lives than typical rooftop glass modules: A standard solar panel warranty should come with at least 10 years of protection, though many premium options now offer 25 or even 30+ years of coverage. While many home appliances typically come with a basic warranty offering free replacements within a specified period, solar panels are protected by various types of warranties that cover a range of potential issues. But like any product exposed to the elements, things can go wrong.
