Overview

In brief, you can brush light snow off panels frequently to prevent dense buildup. Use scrapers or squeegees to gently clear compacted snow. Install heating systems to automatically melt snow for high. And when snow does become a problem, the easiest way to automatically remove snow on solar panels isn't a rake or a gadget; it's smart system design. While snow can temporarily reduce output, its impact is often smaller than expected. The configuration of the solar array itself can significantly influence its ability to shed snow without human intervention.
