The scam of selling large quantities of photovoltaic panels is revealed

Overview

One of the most common solar scams is setting up a fake business and “selling” solar panel installations with no plans to install them. These fraudulent businesses might ask for a large cash deposit and then disappear before ever completing any work. Solar panel fraud has become a growing concern in the United States, leaving many homeowners stuck with hidden fees, inflated energy bills, and contracts they never fully understood. If your company offers solar energy, remember that claims must not only be truthful. This article explores the most common solar panel scams, provides tips to recognize red flags, and offers guidance on protecting yourself from fraudulent solar companies. If something you see or hear from a salesperson sounds too good to be true, it probably is.
